Mural Donation at Hickory Flat Public Library

Local artist Katie May recently donated her time and talents to paint a mural on Hickory Flat Public Library's retaining wall. Featuring colorful books and vibrant plants, Katie May says the inspiration for the color palette came directly from the library's interior colors.

"The color scheme is exactly mirrored from the indoor space of this library," says Katie. "I really wanted to reflect the same sort of modern, clean-line feel."

The mural was completed over the summer and was inspired by Katie May's love for reading and desire to give back to the library in her community. The mural also features a few hidden personal touches, such as a blue ribbon honoring a friend of the artist's who passed and a heart at the request of her youngest daughter.

"It is wonderful to see the library reflected in a creative way outside of our four walls," says Angela Cortellino, Executive Director of Sequoyah Regional Library System. "We really appreciate the time and talent of Katie and are so glad she was willing to share this with the community."

Hickory Flat Public Library is one of seven library locations for Sequoyah Regional Library System. To learn more about SRLS and see a full list of locations, please visit our website: SequoyahRegionalLibrary.org.
